The World's Biggest Tea Party

by Jennifer Frantz
illustrated by Lyn Fletcher

On a bright spring day in Ponyville, a group of pony friends gathered at Sweetberry's Sweetshoppe.

“What should we do today?” asked Rainbow Dash.
“We could go for a balloon ride,” Minty suggested.
“I know!” said Pinkie Pie. “Let’s have a tea party.
Not just any tea party—the world’s biggest tea party!”

The friends agreed that was a great idea.

“There’s a lot to do to get ready,” Pinkie Pie said.

“There are invitations to mail, games to plan, and cookies to bake.”

“And of course, we’ll need a little tea!”

Sweetberry added.

"Tweeeeeeee!" Thistle Whistle cried, doing her best imitation of a tea kettle.
"I love tea parties! What can I do to help?"

Pinkie Pie giggled at her friend.
“You can help me make a list.”

Soon all the ponies had a job to do.
At the Pony Post Office, Minty, Wyleria,
and Merriweather were in charge of invitations.

But things soon turned sticky!

“Oops!” Minty cried. “What will we do now?”

“Don’t worry,” Merriweather said. “I have an idea.”

In no time, Minty, Wysteria, and Merriweather were flying high with the world's biggest tea party invitation.

"Whee!" Minty cried.
"Now everyone will come to the tea party."

Over at Sew-and-So's Closet, a parade of ponies was trying on fancy fashions.

"How do you like my tea party hat?" Rainbow Dash asked.

"It's tea-rrific!" said Strawberry Swirl.

“Dressing up for a tea party is so much fun!” Sew-and-So giggled.

“Say ‘tea!’” Fluttershy called, snapping a picture of her fashionable friends.

Back at the Castle, Pinkie Pie stopped in to see how Rarity's decorations were coming along.

"Oh, my!" said Pinkie Pie.

Rarity was having tons of fun,
but there was still a lot to be done!

The other ponies lent a helping hand,
and in a flash the Castle had become the perfect party palace!

Pinkie Pie checked her list one last time.
Everything was ready.

Everything except . . . the TEA!
“Oh, no!” Pinkie Pie cried.

It couldn't be the world's biggest tea party without any tea.

“Don’t worry, Pinkie,” Wysteria said.
“Everything will be just fine.”

“She’s right,” Strawberry Swirl added.

“Just count on your friends!”

"TwEEEEEEEEEEEE!"

Pinkie Pie turned and saw Thistle Whistle and Sweetberry arriving with the world's biggest pot of tea.

Pinkie Pie smiled.

It was time to enjoy the world's biggest tea party with the world's greatest friends . . .

... and of course, a little tea.

Mint Tea

6 cups water

10 sprigs of fresh mint

8 decaffeinated tea bags

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar

In a medium pot, add mint leaves to water and bring to a boil. Remove from heat and add the tea bags. Cover the pot and let steep for five minutes. Remove tea bags and mint leaves, and then stir in the sugar. Chill in refrigerator.

Garnish with new mint leaves before serving.

Petit Fours

1 loaf of frozen pound cake

1 container of ready-made white frosting

2 tablespoons milk

Food coloring in various colors

Decorator icing in tubes

While frozen, cut the loaf into 2 inch by 2 inch squares and place them on a cookie sheet lined with waxed paper, about one inch apart. Spoon the frosting into a large bowl and add milk until smooth but not runny.

Divide into four smaller bowls. Add one or two drops of each food coloring color into each bowl and stir until a light pastel color develops. Cover each cake square with a smooth layer of frosting and put the pan in the freezer for 30 minutes. With the decorator icing tubes, draw pretty shapes and swirls on each cake.

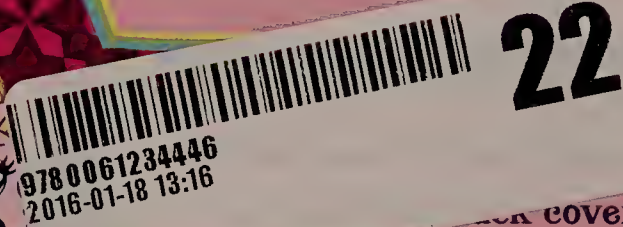

Serve with a smile!

Pinkie Pie has a great idea—
she wants to have the biggest tea party in the world!
But it's a lot of work, and she can't do it alone.
Will her friends help make her dream come true?
